

Children's Talk

Notes for website under heading Kids Talk

Well today's readings include thoughts from two misery guts from our Bible records, that of a man called Job and also King David. They didn't just feel miserable enough to eat Worms. They thought for a time that they were worms.

At school when we felt bad, kids often sang the nursery rhyme found at the following YouTube site:

Some questions to think about:

Why would being a worm be bad? (After all, when they are present in the soil, the soil is great for growing plants!)

When things are seriously bad, what sort of things happen to make you feel so miserably low and helpless?

What sort of things make you feel better, less helpless when things are seriously wrong?

For the kids activity, you'll need a dice to play Snakes and Ladders
